Financial Support for Domestic Visiting Scholars

The National Center for Theoretical Sciences (hereafter referred to as NCTS) aims at cultivating theoretical scientists and promoting collaborative research, thus supports domestic researchers in the field of mathematics who wish to conduct research in NCTS for a certain period of time.

The Application:

The application process follows the guidelines of the Ministry of Science and Technology. Domestic researcher with approval of his/her home institution may submit the application, which includes the research project, curriculum vitae, three at most representative papers in the past five years, and proposed period of visit.

The Support:

As long as the applicant's home institution is thirty kilometers away from NCTS or the applicant is de facto conducting off-site research, the monthly allowance may be NTD 30,000 at most; the supported period is one to six months, or up to one year under exceptional circumstances. After the visit is finished, the applicant should submit two research reports in two months.
